Reviewer General Comments and Suggestions (mandatory written feedback):

This abstract is a nice display of student work but I wonder if any of this is actually new and I wonder if this will be just a display of work from one studio or if the author has actually done research on the topic or is this just the student's work? How do these techniques really help a student develop a project and how do these techniques teach or develop creative thinking and problem solving skills. I would not like this to be just a show of images.

Reviewer General Comments and Suggestions (mandatory written feedback):

I would like to suggest that you avoid including subjective evaluations such as the students' opinions. Support your research with objective data to give it credibility. Good luck.

Reviewer General Comments and Suggestions (mandatory written feedback)

Well organized and clearly stated paper. Overall very strong. One question I did have was whether or not this was an innovative technique? It would help if the author clarified what aspects of their experiment are building on prior research of AR and VR and which areas of their research are staking out new, unexplored uses of this technology. This was not immediately evident in the reading of the abstract. Nevertheless, it appears to be a very good proposal for a presentation and paper.
